Instructions

Prior to beginning the investigation into the refusal of unsafe work, review the following sections with the worker initiating the process. Section 3.12 "Procedure for refusal", and 3.13 "No prohibited action" are both taken from the Occupational Health and Safety Regulation guideline published by WorkSafeBC (WSBC).

3.12 Procedure for refusal

3.12 (1) A person must not carry out or cause to be carried out any work process or operate or cause to be operated any tool, appliance or equipment if that person has reasonable cause to believe that to do so would create an undue hazard to the health and safety of any person.

"Reasonable cause to believe"

The Regulation establishes what is commonly referred to as a "reasonable person test." The test is objective: How would a reasonable person, dispassionate, and fully apprised of the circumstances of the matter, interpret the situation?

A reasonably held belief is generally formed by the worker at the time of the work refusal, based on the relevant and available information at the time, and exercising good faith judgment. Whether or not that reasonably held belief is substantiated will generally be determined after following the steps below and investigating the matter.

"Undue hazard"

The term "undue hazard" incorporates each of the following elements:

- "Hazard" is defined in section 1.1 of the Regulation to mean "a thing or condition that may expose a person to a risk of injury or occupational disease."
- "Risk" is defined in section 1.1 as "a chance of injury or occupational disease."
- "Undue" is generally accepted as meaning something that is unwarranted, inappropriate, excessive, or disproportionate.

Work that may reasonably be perceived as creating an undue hazard includes a thing or condition that may expose a person to an unwarranted, inappropriate, excessive, or disproportionate risk of injury or occupational disease. An undue hazard is something more than unusual or unexpected; however, it would generally be understood as a hazard that creates an unacceptable, unreasonable, or unnecessary health and safety risk to a person at the workplace.

Reasonable cause to believe work creates an undue hazard

The belief that work will create an undue hazard is therefore more than a generalized concern or feeling of uncomfortableness. When a worker refuses work on account of a reasonable belief — in other words an objective reason refusing work as unsafe to the point of presenting an undue hazard — the employer is required to follow the steps set out in the Regulation to resolve the matter.

- 3.12 (2) A worker who refuses to carry out a work process or operate a tool, appliance or equipment pursuant to subsection (1) must immediately report the circumstances of the unsafe condition to the worker's supervisor or employer.
- 3.12 (3) A supervisor or employer receiving a report made under subsection (2) must immediately investigate the matter and

- (a) ensure that any unsafe condition is remedied without delay, or
- (b) if, in the supervisor's or employer's opinion, the report is not valid, must so inform the person who made the report.
- 3.12 (4) If the procedure under subsection (3) does not resolve the matter and the worker continues to refuse to carry out the work process or operate the tool, appliance or equipment, the supervisor or employer must investigate the matter in the presence of the worker who made the report and in the presence of
 - (a) a worker member of the joint committee,
 - (b) a worker who is selected by a trade union representing the worker, or
 - (c) if there is no joint committee or the worker is not represented by a trade union, any other reasonably available worker selected by the worker.
- 3.12 (5) If the investigation under subsection (4) does not resolve the matter and the worker continues to refuse to carry out the work process or operate the tool, appliance or equipment, both the supervisor, or the employer, and the worker must immediately notify an officer, who must investigate the matter without undue delay and issue whatever orders are deemed necessary.

Section 3.12.1 of the Regulation states

If a worker refuses work under section 3.12, the employer must not require or permit another worker to do the refused work unless

- (a) the matter has been resolved under section 3.12(3), (4) or (5), or
- (b) the employer has, in writing, advised the other worker and a person referred to in section 3.12(4)(a), (b) or (c) of all of the following:
 - (i) the refusal;
 - (ii) the unsafe condition reported under section 3.12(2);
 - (iii) the reasons why the work would not create an undue hazard to the health and safety of the other worker or any other person;
 - (iv) the right of the other worker under section 3.12 to refuse unsafe work.

Section 3.13 of the Regulation states:

- (1) A worker must not be subject to prohibited action as defined in section 47 of the OHS provisions of the Workers Compensation Act because the worker has acted in compliance with section 3.12 or with an order made by an officer.
- (2) Temporary assignment to alternative work at no loss in pay to the worker until the matter in section 3.12 is resolved under section 3.12(3), (4) or (5) is deemed not to constitute prohibited action. Section 4.19 of the Regulation states:
- (1) A worker with a physical or mental impairment which may affect the worker's ability to safely perform assigned work must inform the worker's supervisor or employer of the impairment, and must not knowingly do work where the impairment may create an undue risk to the worker or anyone else.
- (2) A worker must not be assigned to activities where a reported or observed impairment may create an undue risk to the worker or anyone else.

3.13 No prohibited action

- 3.13 (1) A worker must not be subject to prohibited action as defined in section 47 of the Workers Compensation Act because the worker has acted in compliance with section 3.12 or with an order made by an officer.
- 3.13 (2) Temporary assignment to alternative work at no loss in pay to the worker until the matter in section
- 3.12 is resolved under section 3.12 (3), (4) or (5) is deemed not to constitute prohibited action.

Workers exercising their right to refuse unsafe work should be doing so while at the worksite, where they can demonstrate the objectivity of their claim while following this regulated process.

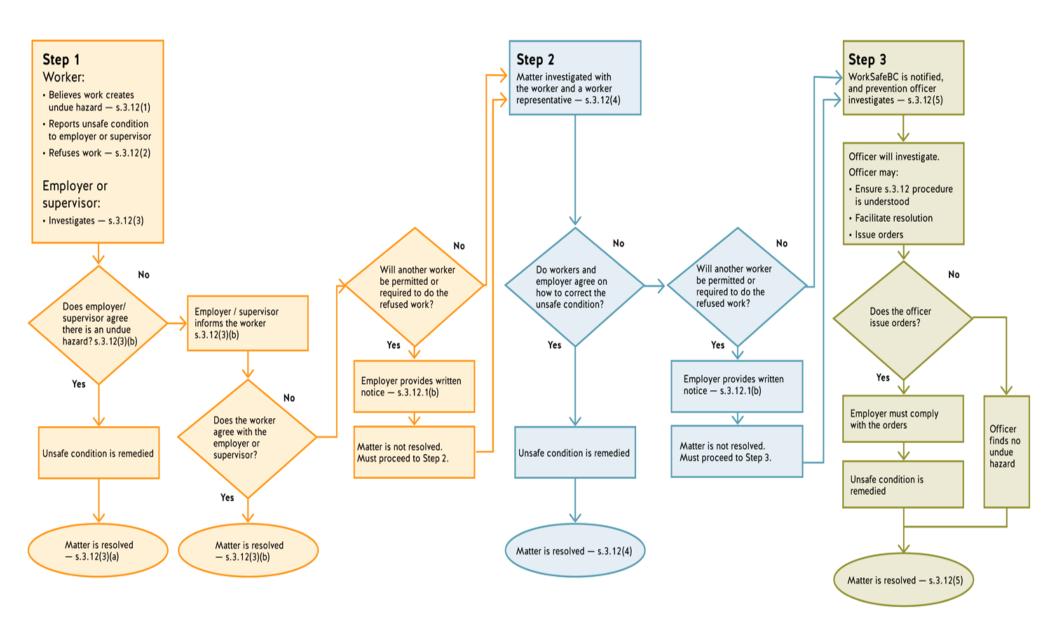

Refusals must be activated by the affected worker and not another worker.

Revision Log

Major revisions include substantial changes to the meaning or wording of the document and are noted by a change in the whole number. For example, n+1.0, where n is the existing version number.

Minor revisions such as administrative corrections to language for clarity or formatting are noted as #.n+1 where n is the decimal point of the existing version.

Revision Number	Date of Change	Description of changes
2.0	25-May-2022	Added a new Step #3 to the process that supports the changes to the OHS regulations by including section 3.12.1. The new step ensures that the worker is give written notification of the earlier refusal.
2.1	26-Aug-2022	 The following changes were made to align with the updated regulation and guidance document produced by WSBC. Moved the section on temporary assignment of the worker to alternate work to the first part of the form. Moved the old step #3 that was implemented for compliance with 3.12.1 of the regulation to become Step 1b. Changed the table Step 1b to include text boxes to write the description of the issue and the reason it is not an undue hazard. Also explicitly indicated that the worker has a right to refuse unsafe work. In the risk matrix on page added "hierarchy of" in front of controls. Changed High rating to be "Controls in place may not be sufficient"
2.2	13-Mar-2024	Instructions regarding who completes the form and how the completed form will be stored were added. Formatting changed for extra space for some responses. Colours updated to match District colours. Example summary statement updated for relevance
